

CHINESE PLAN MAJOR OFFENSIVE

WORKERS TO LAUNCH CHEST DRIVE

CAMPAIGN TO START AT MEETING MONDAY AT MASONIC TEMPLE

Impromptu Talks Are Planned; Citizens Are Invited

Facing the task of raising $12,000 at one of the most critical times in Xenia's history, an army of approximately 135 fund workers and other interested citizens will assemble at the Masonic Temple at 6:30 p. m. Monday to put the finishing touches on plans for an intensive week's campaign during the city's fourth annual Community Chest drive, starting Tuesday.

Chest leaders are certain that virtually all of the volunteer campaign solicitors will be present at the dinner-meeting on the eve of the campaign Monday night, and they also stress the importance of the fact that the final pre-campaign rally is an open one. A large attendance of citizens who may not take an active part in the drive, but are nevertheless interested in its success, is desired.

Marking a departure from other years, there will be no out-of-town speaker for the occasion. Ways and means of combating "sales resistance" and of impressing upon the public the necessity, this year more than ever before, of loosening its purse-strings, will be discussed.

Impromptu talks will be given by the various regional chairmen who will direct the actual solicitation in each of the twenty-seven districts into which the city has been divided. These districts have been subdivided into smaller sections with each worker assigned to a particular section, thus placing the campaign on more of an efficiency basis than heretofore.

Chest solicitors expect to give generously of their time, realizing that never before was there a greater need for assistance of the welfare and relief organizations in the chest group.

The keynote of the drive will be to present the story of the Community Chest's needs to each individual in the city who is solicited, so there will be a more thorough appreciation and understanding of the conditions faced by the various agencies.

PANTAGES TO TAKE STAND IN DEFENSE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—The stage was set for the franchise of the co-star of the two-year-long melodrama of the rich man and the poor little girl.

Alexander Pantages, multimillionaire showman, was to take the witness stand this week in his own defense against the charges of Emille Pringle, somber-eyed country girl stenograph student, that he attacked her in 1929 when she went to his office seeking work on the stage.

Pantages will testify that Miss Pringle, who is now nineteen years old, sought to place him in a compromising position to compel him to book her in a vaudeville act, or else pay her a large sum of money.

PRINCE OF WALES IS REPORTED ILL

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Prince of Wales was reported "slightly indisposed" today at Himsley Hall, Wrothamshire, residence of Viscount Ednam, causing postponement of his departure for London.

The prince was scheduled to deliver a radio address here at seven o'clock this evening, appealing to the country to buy British goods in the interest of improving Britain's trade balance.

MAYOR ENDORSES CHEST DRIVE

"UNTIL there is found another way to deal with this most unfortunate situation, I gladly endorse the Xenia Community Chest and I do hope that the people of Xenia will get behind the men and women who are offering their services to put this drive over."

"Remember it is not only the big and the rich who can help and give. Remember the widows mite. We shall ask you again as citizens of Xenia—whose very name means hospitality—not to let any solicitor for this worthy cause go away from your door without you having contributed your mite."

JACOB KANY, Mayor.

Rose Allen Going Abroad To Avoid Strain Of Trial

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—Pretty, 18-year-old Rose Allen is going abroad—upon what, under less tragic circumstances, might have been her honeymoon, it was reported today.

She is to be away at least six months—during which time her 23-year-old brother, Edward, will be tried for the murder of her sweet heart, Francis A. Donaldson III. He may be acquitted; he may be found guilty, and sentenced to a long prison term, or, even, to the electric chair. In any event, Rose Allen will have no part in it, either for the prosecution, or for the defense, it was indicated.

This was forecast today through reliable sources of information, close to the Allen family. It came, moreover, apparently as no surprise to the district attorney's office, and, it may be, as a relief to Allen's attorney, John R. H. Scott.

Young Allen's chances, it generally was conceded, will be materially improved if his sister does not, as she at first indicated she would do, take the stand against him.

On the other hand, belief rapidly was nearing certainty that the shooting of Donaldson last Monday night interrupted what otherwise might have been young Donaldson's and Rose Allen's elopement.

Intimations became clearer that young Donaldson, at the Allen home, may have informed Rose Allen's father, and her brother, Edward, he intended to marry her, despite their objections and objections of his own parents.

"Eddie" Allen, in jail at Norristown, was said by his guards today to have asked several times for news of his sister. Informed that her bitterness towards him apparently remained unchanged, he said, young Allen displayed greater dejection than he has shown at any time.

WASHINGTON PLANS ELABORATE RECEPTION FOR DINO GRANDI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Official Washington became "Grandi conscious" today, notwithstanding other vital international problems as it put the finishing touches to the program for the entertainment of the Italian Foreign Minister, Dino Grandi, and Signora Grandi.

The "finishing touch" to the elaborate welcome prepared for Grandi was the proffer of the services of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as pilot for the Caribbean clipper, newest of the Pan American transport planes, to convey the Grandi party from New York to Washington.

The employment of Colonel Lindbergh as special pilot for the party literally at the last moment, injected a dramatic interest into the welcoming ceremonies which assured the Italian foreign minister of public attention throughout the country.

It was also a deft demonstration by the state department that this government was going "all the way" to assure Signor Grandi and the world of this government's sincere goodwill. The announcement, coming within a few hours of the publication of plans by anti-Fascist leaders to protest Grandi's reception by this government, served as the administration's rejoinder to these protests.

Although the announcement of the leaders of this group stated that delegations of anti-Fascist from New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities were coming to Washington to join in the protest, these delegations failed to materialize.

The tender of the huge new amphibian and services of America's noted pilot, constituted a gesture of hospitality which establishes a precedent in official honors to visiting foreign dignitaries. Grandi becomes the first high official of a foreign government to be flown by a small plane from the port of entry to the capital.

The use of the Caribbean clipper compelled some modification of the official reception plans here. Instead of gathering at the Union Station, Secretary of State Stimson and other government officials will go to the naval air station to welcome their guest.

Full military honors will be accorded Grandi upon his arrival. Immediately afterward, he and Mrs. Grandi will motor to the Stimson home. The Grandis will be house guests of the Stimsons until Wednesday when they will take up their residence at the Mayflower Hotel.

The Italian foreign minister and Signora Grandi will pay an official call at the White House later in the afternoon. A full program of entertainment has been provided, including a dinner to the Grandis by President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House on Wednesday.

Science and Home Remedies Clash

MANSFIELD, O., Nov. 16.—The skill of medical science and the lore of old-fashioned home remedies were called upon here today to bring relief to Ira A. King, Mansfield garage operator who has hiccoughed for a week.

King was reported today to be in a weak condition at a local hospital after dozens of attempts to ston the affliction had failed.

Physicians yesterday administered musk, which had been rushed here from Chicago in the belief that it would stop the malady, but the effort failed. An x-ray treatment previously tried was of no avail.

Citizens, who learned of King's plight sent in a flood of simple home remedies which they urged to be tried. He first suffered a slight attack on November 2 and recovered, but a week ago started hiccoughing again, seized with a violent attack.

MEXICO'S TENNIS STAR SHOTS SELF

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—Manuel Liano, captain of the Mexican Davis Cup Tennis Team, was in a critical condition here today from a self-inflicted bullet wound and was not expected to recover.

Friends attributed his suicide attempt to a recent quarrel with his fiancée, resulting in a broken engagement.

WIFE ARRESTED FOR MURDER OF HUSBAND RESULT OF QUARREL

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 16.—Miss Rosemary Palmer Gilding, seventeen-year-old London, England heiress, was strangely missing today.

The beautiful young daughter of a wealthy English banker, it became known, mysteriously vanished on Saturday from the home of Professor Emeritus Hamilton Crawford MacDougall, of Wellesley College and Mrs. MacDougall.

That an elopement was responsible for the disappearance of Miss Gilding was a possible theory advanced today by police. However, Professor and Mrs. MacDougall said the missing girl had no boy friends to their knowledge, her acquaintances on this side of the Atlantic being restricted to a few persons.

One of the most intensive searches for a missing person in the history of Massachusetts was launched in an effort to locate the girl, who disappeared on Saturday suddenly and without cause from the MacDougall home, where she was a house guest.

Following nearly an hour's grilling by police, County Detective Michael Stabile announced, Mrs. Culbertson admitted she shot her husband with a shotgun following a quarrel. The argument, detectives said, arose over the question of the Culbertsons accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Walker back to Ohio on a hunting trip.

"There was evidence of drinking," Stabile said, "at a little party the foursome staged late Saturday night."

Chief of Police William J. Kane, of Mt. Lebanon, when he arrived at the Culbertson home shortly after the shooting, found Mrs. Culbertson in hysterics, he said.

Four hours police and county detectives attempted vainly to get her to talk of the shooting. After being taken to the county detective bureau, authorities said, she broke her silence and told of shooting her husband after their quarrel.

Police quoted Mrs. Culbertson as saying that once during the argument her husband slapped her. Enraged, she picked up a shot gun and fired, the alleged confession stated.

The shooting occurred while Walker, a well-known lumber dealer of Mt. Vernon, had gone to a nearby garage to obtain some gasoline. He told authorities that when he returned he found 11-year-old Charles standing on the sidewalk crying. Walker's wife and Mrs. Culbertson were in an adjoining room to that in which the body of the slain man lay. They were hysterical, he reported.

Culbertson, who was connected with an engineering construction company here, was a graduate of Ohio State University and Cornell.

SHORTER RAILROAD
WORKING DAY TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEET

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—A shorter working day for railroad employees will be one of the subjects for discussion at a joint meeting of twenty-one railroad brotherhoods and a committee of nine railroad presidents in New York on Thursday, it was announced here today by D. B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway labor executives association.

Railroad presidents will be asked to join in the program of relief for unemployed railroad workers which was adopted at a Washington meeting of the brotherhoods last Nov. 2, according to Robertson, who is also president of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen and engineers.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, is chairman of the committee of railroad heads which will meet with the brotherhood representatives. Robertson stated that he received an acceptance of the association's request for the meeting yesterday. The rail presidents were appointed at a committee was appointed at a meeting in New York last Friday.

Attempting to discover a plan by which the 350,000 idle rail workers in the country could be aided, the brotherhood committee discussed the shorter working day, the pension and other matters at the Washington conference. It was decided at that time to ask the assistance of the railroads in forming a plan of relief.

EVEN TORN PANTS CAN'T STOP WEDDING

JACKSON, O., Nov. 16.—Neither automobile accidents nor a bridegroom's torn trousers could stop plans for a double wedding yesterday.

STEALS GUN SHELLS TO HUNT FOR FOOD

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 16.—A father of three children who wanted to hunt rabbits in order to get food for his family was charged with stealing gun shells from an automobile.

Newton C. Dusenberry was alleged to have confessed yesterday to taking shells from the automobile of Attorney Ralph Finley because he had no ammunition for the hunting trip. After missing a quantity of shells from his car Finley purchased more and placed them in the car. He confronted Dusenberry when the latter returned to the car and accused him of the theft.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY TO PICK DELEGATES ON PRESENT BASIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Delegates to the Democratic national convention next year probably will be chosen on the basis of existing representation in congress, notwithstanding there has been re-apportionment affecting more than half of the states of the union.

In an effort to head-off a rising controversy, J. M. Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, sought and obtained an opinion from John W. Davis, 1924 standard bearer, that the 1932 procedure should follow representation as of the 72nd congress, rather than the reapportioned congresses that follow it.

If the Davis opinion is adopted by the national committee here in January, as expected, twenty-one states will have as many delegates in the convention next June as they had in 1928, despite population shifts that would have decreased their delegations.

Under Democratic rules, the various states are allowed two convention delegates for each senator and congressman.

As reapportioned by the last congress, California, Michigan, Texas, New York, Ohio and New Jersey gain congressmen at the expense of twenty-one other states, mostly in the south and west, which have lost seats in population growth.

Thus, were reapportionment followed out in the selection of convention delegates, California would gain sixteen delegates, Michigan, eight, Texas six, and New York, Ohio, and New Jersey four each in the next Democratic national convention.

States losing delegates would be Missouri six, Georgia four, Iowa four, Kentucky four, Pennsylvania four; and the following two each: Alabama, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Indiana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin.

The final decision on which procedure is to be followed rests, of course, with the national committee which meets in January to make arrangements for the convention next June.

Inasmuch as twenty-one states will profit by adopting the Davis opinion, the national committee from these states are expected to approve it. There will be, however, energetic protest from the states who lose by it.

The perennial wet-and-dry question figures in the situation to some extent, for reapportionment takes strength away from the dry states of the south and west, and adds strength to the populous states where enthusiasm for prohibition is, to say the least, at low ebb.

Should the convention next June come to close quarters over the adoption of a wet plank in the Democratic platform, the decision of the national committee in the apportionment of delegates may prove to have been of considerable importance.

The Republicans are not confronted with a similar problem, for they base their convention representation upon the total Republican vote cast in the preceding general election.

RIGHTMIRE SPEAKS TO COLLEGE GROUP

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 16.—An admonition to put their classroom work on trial in an effort to set it in direct line with a continually changing economic situation complicated by "economic quackery and inert ignorance" was presented to the land grant schools of America here today by President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State University.

Dr. Rightmire made the plea in his president's address to the association of land grant colleges. Educational institutions should "critically overhaul our procedures and purposes, appraise anew the economic, social and industrial forces that are loose in the world today and their total phase which is subject to educational influence," he declared.

SPUDS FOR HOOVER

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—An ox cart load of potatoes trundled through Broadway today, en-route to Washington.

At the White House, the tubers will be presented to President Hoover as the gift of Governor William Tudor Gardner of Maine, and potato growers of that state.

The cart was drawn by a pair of pliant, white faced Hereford oxen. The vehicle was 100 years old, with wheels five feet in diameter.

LEAVITT CASE NOT DROPPED;
DUE IN COURT

No Special Favors For Hoover Relative Chief Claims

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 16.—"The case against C. Van Leavitt, a brother-in-law of President Hoover, for possession of liquor, will not be dropped," declared C. E. Webb, chief of police today.

Leavitt and C. R. Dalley, a grocer were to face a police judge today on charges of possession of liquor last Monday when Leavitt was arrested in Dalley's store by Santa Monica police and federal agents who said he had a sack containing nineteen pints of whiskey.

"Tommy Carr, the detective who signed the complaint against Leavitt, had a couple of days off and went to Oakland with some of the district attorney's investigators in connection with another liquor case. Tommy was due back in town today for the hearing. Even if he didn't get back the case would not be dropped. 'Leavitt and Dalley are due in court at 9 o'clock,' Chief Webb declared.

Leavitt claimed he was a victim of circumstances when federal agents arrested him.

"Someone handed me a sack and I was left holding it when the agents came in," Leavitt said. "I am not guilty of the charge."

Leavitt is the husband of President Hoover's only sister.

Chief Webb, declared that no special favors would be shown Leavitt and Dalley, but that their hearing would be conducted in the regular manner. No steps to dismiss the case had been contemplated, Webb said.

JAPS PESSIMISTIC OVER CHANCES THAT PEACE CAN PREVAIL

Plan No Relaxation Of Demands; Chinese Start Attack

TOKYO, Nov. 16.—As the hour approached for the meeting of the League of Nations council in Paris, black pessimism prevailed in Tokyo tonight over the chances of a peaceful settlement of the Manchurian crisis.

Coincident with receipt of reports indicating the Chinese troops of General Ma Chan-Shan were planning a major offensive on the Nonni River front, the war office issued a statement declaring a "dangerous situation" existed and foreign office spokesmen remained firm in their stand against China.

Government officials made clear they intended no relaxation of their demands, insisting Japan could not sacrifice traditional principles merely for the purpose of saving the prestige of the League of Nations. Baron Shidehara, foreign minister, reiterated to International News Service in an interview that Japan had no desire for war, but that withdrawal of troops from Manchuria was impossible until a satisfactory agreement had been reached with China.

At a late hour this evening, the foreign office insisted it had not received the text of a note handed to the Japanese Ambassador in Moscow by Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for foreign affairs, warning Japan against military activities endangering the Chinese Eastern Railway, of which Russia is half owner.

Latest reports received here from Mukden told of a clash between a Japanese patrol and 600 Chinese soldiers near Tashing, which Japan declared was the forerunner of a strong flank attack by the Chinese. Eight Japanese casualties were reported.

It was officially announced that army planes were being rushed to the Nonni River front from Hamamatsu, Tachia Ra and Heijo, army air force bases.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A dispatch from Harbin today said that the Chinese army in northern Manchuria had launched an attack at dawn upon Japanese forces at the Nonni River bridge, and had cut the Japanese line of communications south of the river.

The Japanese faced a critical situation, the dispatch said. A subsequent message said the Japanese counter-attacked, repulsing the Chinese and taking a number of prisoners.

MUKDEN, Nov. 16.—Skirmishing between Chinese and Japanese troops continued today on the Nonni River front, as Japanese artillery and airplanes harassed the Chinese lines south of Anganki, preparing the way for a general advance northward.

General Ma Chan-Shan, commanding the Heilungkiang army defending Anganki and Taitshai, was reported to be personally in the field at the head of his troops, rallying them for a new attack upon the Japanese.

Before going to the front, the Heilungkiang commander again rejected a Japanese demand for the return north of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and this refusal was followed by a cavalry engagement on the Japanese right flank.

Four thousand Chinese cavalrymen were driven back, however, by the Japanese, supported by field guns and bombing airplanes.

and all Chinese troops were driven out of the village of Cheinkwan, east of Tashing.

The Chinese then began entrenching southwest of Anganki, evidently preparing to make a determined stand outside of the city. If a Japanese advance is ordered, the Japanese artillery is using shrapnel and high explosives against the Chinese front lines, and is believed to be inflicting severe casualties. Seven Japanese were killed in skirmishing during the past twenty-four hours.

Protected by the artillery and the cavalry action in the Tashing area, Japanese engineers are rushing repairs on the Nonni River Railroad bridges so that it will be possible to move troops and supplies to Anganki if the Chinese can be driven from their present position.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A Harbin dispatch today to the Exchange Telegraph Company said that 2,000 Japanese troops, supported by cavalry, were advancing north of the Nonni River, apparently with the intention of cutting off Chinese front line troops from the main body of the Hellungkiang army.

PEIPING, Nov. 16.—A threat by Henry Pu Yi, former "boy emperor" of China, to commit suicide has caused a delay in plans at Mukden to have him crowned emperor of Manchuria. International News Service learned today.

Pu Yi, according to private messages received here, told members of his entourage that he would kill himself if the Japanese did not abandon their scheme of making him the head of an independent Manchurian government.

The coronation ceremonies, scheduled for today, have been postponed therefore until Tuesday, while further efforts are made to "persuade" the 25-year-old ex-emperor that he should revive the ancient Manchurian dynasty under Japanese protection.

Pu Yi's departure from Tientsin on a Japanese steamship was first made known last week by International News Service. The youth, known as Hsuan Tung before his abdication as Chinese emperor, was taken to Dalren, and is now at Mukden, residing at the home of one of the widows of Marshal Zhang Tso-Lin.

WHY

do more and more smokers say:

"I've changed to Chesterfield"

BECAUSE...

THEY'RE Milder. It's the tobacco! The best tobacco—the smoothest and mildest that money can buy—go into Chesterfield. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine... cured by the farmer... then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads. No wonder you say, "They're so much milder!"

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. That's Chesterfield's secret—but millions of smokers agree that the job couldn't be improved! Rich aroma of Turkish and mellow sweetness of Domestic, blended and cross-blended to Chesterfield's own BETTER TASTE.

THEY'RE PURE. Cleanliness and purity, always! Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists... tested thoroughly. The purest cigarette paper made, burning without taste or odor. Sanitary manufacture... no hands touch your Chesterfields. They're as pure as the water you drink!

THEY SATISFY. You break open a clean, tight-sealed package. You light up a well-filled cigarette. Yes, sir... you're going to like this cigarette—you know that with your very first puff. And right there's where many a smoker changes to Chesterfield. They Satisfy!

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.—II Timothy, II, 1.

SUGGESTS QUESTION

Announcement at the White House that the 1933 departmental budgets have been pared of $350,000,000 suggests a question: If the administrative departments in Washington can get through the next fiscal year with $350,000,000 less than they originally contemplated asking for, why did they ask for that excess over actual minimum requirements in the first place? A million dollars is a million dollars, whether times are good or bad, whether the national budget is balanced or not. The withdrawal of $350,000,000 from productive enterprise makes as deep a hole under prosperous conditions as under conditions of depression, although it may not appear so to the public eye.

The ability of the governmental departments to reduce their budgets for 1933 by $350,000,000 creates a presumption that if they had not done so the expenditure of that amount would have been an unnecessary disbursement of public money. Occasionally it is necessary to postpone desirable improvements, when the money is not forthcoming with which to finance them; but in this instance the Government will go on just the same, with no loss of essential efficiency. Why can't the same economy be employed when money is easy?

A partial answer is found in the White House statement, which alludes to the many sectional interests throughout the country that are asking the Government for increased expenditures. There's the beginning of the trouble. The senator or congressman who can tap a treasury filled by the people of all the states for the particular benefit of his own little backwater in a single state is the one who garners the votes. Very few politicians can resist the temptation to build political fences with other people's money. The recent rapid increase in the cost of government shows that many parts of the country have encouraged their representatives in Washington to do that very thing. The sudden discovery that in a pinch departmental budgets can have $350,000,000 lopped from them measures in a way the burden laid upon the taxpayers by sectional cupidity.

CENSORSHIP

The extraordinary mental processes of regulators of public morals are exemplified excruciatingly by the decisions of Anthony Czarnecki (if the boys don't call him Czar Nicky they miss a bet), collector of customs at Chicago, and of the Customs Bureau in Washington, who have barred from importation and general sale, a group of etchings by James McNeill Whistler and Anders Zorn on the ground that they are obscene.

Czarnecki (says he) took a look, and blushed, and shipped the whole assortment off to his more calloused superiors in Washington. The latter, responding to a protest by the dealer who bought and undertook to import the goods, admitted that the etchings are of a sort that may properly be exhibited in art galleries, but wagged their heads and ruled that while the pictures may be all right in a collection they are improper for commercial distribution.

In other words, if some art gallery, say, the Chicago Art Institute, should decide to acquire the Whistler and Zorn prints and hang them up where the general public, including children of all ages, temperaments and mental slants, could go and look their fill, that would be all right. But if private individuals, presumably of mature years and artistic judgment, should be given an opportunity to buy them in order to keep them in their homes, that would be an affront to public morals. Must a censor be an ass?

Other Editorial Thoughts

SHIPPING GOLD ON PAPER

The huge movements of gold between New York and Europe, which have attracted so much attention in the last month, are a reminder that this method of settling international balances is one of the vexatious and wasteful results of economic nationalism.

On all sides there is agreement that the world is an economic unit. These shipments are testimony to that fact. What is more, a concept is now gaining currency that a nation's gold is not necessarily an asset, but a trust. If accumulated beyond the nation's power to absorb, it is as valueless as dross. Yet this concept so far is merely academic. The nations insist on keeping "gold in vault," and the vault resides in the country of ownership.

There are promising exceptions to the general rule. Some of the metal supposedly shipped is simply earmarked. An American "shipment" to France, for example, may be transferred from one vault to another labeled "France" in the Federal Reserve depot. But it will appear on the credit side of the Bank of France's returns as gold in French possession. An extension of this device has been employed of late which makes a triangular transaction out of a gold deal. It was used by the Bank of England last week in repaying a portion of its debt to the Federal Reserve Bank. The British bank physically shifted part of the gold to the shorter destination at Paris, and then Paris transferred the same amount of its earmarked gold in New York to the Federal Reserve Bank. How simple!

There is a vast possibility in the extension of this practice. In this instance it is dependent on the maintenance of French gold in the United States. Besides, it does not dispense with a physical assignment. What is required is the development of procedure which will do away with all the actual shipments of the metal. This could be done by readjusting accounts in a central institution which would receive a quota of gold from every nation for that purpose.

An illustration of what would be involved is furnished by the Federal Reserve System. All the Reserve banks keep at Washington a gold settlement fund, managed by the Federal Reserve Board. A statement of debits and credits periodically is sent to Washington, and the final adjustment is effected by transferring gold from one account to another. This saves the country from being criss-crossed with gold consignments proceeding all the time between the Reserve banks.

The saving in time and expense which would follow the adoption of such a procedure in world affairs is obvious. It would do more, it would partly obviate those fears which are always aroused by reports of gold "losses." The word is clearly a misnomer, but it continues to be used, even by officials who have no hesitation in admitting that the world is an economic unit, and that surplus gold must be redistributed in the interest of the holder itself. The pen-and-ink method of transferring gold, which would presumably be in the hands of the Bank of International Settlements at Basel, might be unexciting compared with the present method of trundling bars down to the New York harbor for destination overseas, but once it became the accepted routine it would serve better. The practice of earmarking and triangular operation is proof that the world is progressing toward that goal. — Christy

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—This is the year of guest stars on the radio. $3,000-a-week crooners and crackerjacks appear gratis in gossip-writers' hours "for the publicity." They are, in fact, eager to give away services which command high prices from commercial time buyers of the air. Yet for my own WGBS nook I prefer the odd, the unpublishable personalities of color, the curious. The South American Wall Street trader, Senor Tommy Jurado, who played the Colombian tiple and sang the Argentinian torch songs, gave me a bigger wallop than any standard big-shooter, however gilded, could have done. Am I wrong?

Inez Haynes Irwin has been elected president of the Authors' League of America, the first woman to hold that office. Publishers, by the way, now employ specialists to diagnose the "woman angle" of prospective mss. and no daily newspaper would go to press without plenty of feature material for the dames and dollies. Twenty years ago an editor would have been called daffy to introduce a "woman's page."

CRIME OF THE WEEK

Individual selection of the strangest collision with the law in seven days: Ralph Glaneron, of Brooklyn, fined $102.50 for shooting an elk in Palsades park. Armistice day grows a little quieter, a little less charged with the fervid carbonation of 1918 each year, as the war estacades die. The crowd around the limousine disgorging Joan Bennett at the Morton Downey's in East 86th street for a reception in Joan's honor. She walked without a limp, having completely recovered from her broken hip.

Notation on my calendar: Take another look at the Follies before they close soon. Elmer Rice has two semi-hits on Broadway "Left Bank" and "Counselor at Law." Either may swing into full hit stature if no absolute smash comes along to claim attention. The plump lady in front of the Guild theater, where "Mourning Becomes Electra" is playing, exclaiming: "Why, you don't have to understand a play as elegant as that to enjoy it, Susan!"

ELEVATED ELVES

The "El" train packed with youngsters, some with chicken-wired crates in tow, writhing and tumbling and giggling hilariously on their way to the "Third Annual Pigeon Chuck-Up" on Long Island. I can't understand how the same man wrote the play, "Abraham Lincoln," and the ponderous autobiography, "Inheritance." Although John Drinkwater claims credit for them both. No revue or legitimate production on Broadway could get away with the lines and costumes of the mildest of the burlesque shows. The creaking ancient Pullman-smoker humor purveyed in these houses seems to be waxing as a box-office draw. Fifteen minutes in one of them yesterday revealed the fact that the audience is composed largely of elderly gentlemen of South European stamp. And very young boys.

YOUNG PREFERENCE

The manager of the biggest Greenwich Village bookstore has some strange things to report on the tastes of twelve-year-olds: That all youngsters who ask for Louisa May Alcott do so glumly, apparently after parental prompting; that "Green Hell," "Lawrence in Arabia," and "Island of the Penguins" are sought by the boys, while twelve-year-old girls demand Edna St. Vincent Millay's verse and Kipling.

HOW ABOUT GETTING RID OF THE CAT?

'COALITION GOVERNMENT' APPEARS IMPOSSIBILITY UNDER U. S. SYSTEM

WASHINGTON.—One hears talk of the formation of a "coalition government" by President Hoover

following the opening of legislative proceedings December 7, it will have to be provided for its official means of one sort or another.

It is evident now that the administration will not have even a paper majority in the house of representatives, and in the senate it will be only a paper.

That is to say, the Democrats will have a two or three-vote advantage in the lower congressional chamber; in the upper one (with a Republican being appointed temporarily in the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow's place) 48 out of the total number of 96 ballots will be cast by G. O. P. statesmen, and presumably Vice President Curtis will break all ties in their favor. Arkansas is certain to elect a Democratic successor to the late Senator Thaddeus Caraway.

Allowance, however, must be made for the fact that the nominally Republican senate lineup of 48 includes at least 10 utterly independent progressives who, if anything, are less tolerant of most administration policies than some of the Democrats.

Since the house of representatives is Democratic anyway, its public insolvency there does not matter so much. Nevertheless, it exists, to the extent of 25 or 30

SUN-SPOTS ARE POWERFUL REFRIGERATORS

By Arthur D. V. Carpenter

Dr. Henry Norris Russell recently called our attention to the fact that sun-spots are 1,200 degrees cooler than their surroundings, and that the cooling process carried on in the activity of a sun-spot reduces the temperature of the gases about 2,000 from what they were at a lower level where the spot started operations. The cause of the cooling is explained simply: Sun-spots are great whirls in the sun's atmosphere; as the gases are driven outward and upward they are forced to expand greatly. Forced expansion always cools a gas. Thus we have in a sun-spot a marvelous refrigerator. The ascending protons and electrons of hydrogen combine and liberate heat, keeping the refrigerator running.

The truth undoubtedly is that President Hoover does sincerely wish a "coalition government" could be effected, just as President Wilson wished he could make the English system of "going to the country" work here, too—as a means of forcing senatorial ratification of his post-war program.

He tried it, as we know. And failed, because English governmental mechanics are different from America's, and many things that can be done satisfactorily in one are out-and-out impossibilities on this side of the Atlantic.

It would be ideal for Mr. Hoover, of course, if he could induce the Democratic party, which, by rare good luck for itself, happened to be out of power when the depression "broke," to enter into a "coalition government" with him, and accept the responsibility, if there is no improvement between now and next November.

But is it political human nature for the Democrats to help him realize this idea?

Vague rumors have circulated from time to time, it is true, that the president actually was thinking of trying to effect a real English "coalition" by taking a prominent Democrat into his official family.

The name of Owen D. Young has been definitely mentioned in connection with these reports, but evidence that there ever was any foundation for them is wholly lacking.

Besides, it is plan enough that the result of Mr. Hoover's appointment of a Democrat to his cabinet would be merely to destroy the appointee's Democratic standing, without winning a particle of support for his administration.

Indeed, two former Democrats—Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams—already are included among his advisers, and assuredly neither of them possesses the slightest present political influence in Jeffersonian councils.

Modern Life Induces Bad Posture

By LOGAN CLENDENINE, M. D.

Educators generally are agreed that the posture of school children today is their worst physical fault. This fault increases right up through youth and adult life, so that today we have a race distinguished by the worst bodily posture of many generations. Per-haps the worst bodily posture since the beginning of history.

Why this should be true is not easy to determine. Probably it is not due to any one cause. An ingenious theory has been advanced to the effect that by modern methods of hygiene we are saving more of the children of the slender, droopy type and as these are the most prolific we are nourishing a generation doomed to bad posture. Undoubtedly also the comforts and improvements of modern life have tended to increase poor posture habits. The average boy or girl of today does not have to do so much physical work as did their grandparents, and at the same age. There is little wood chopping or fires, there is even little shoveling of coal into furnaces. Fewer errands to run; the delivery system of stores has modified that.

The change from horse transportation to automobiles is quite suggestive as a cause. You can't slouch when you ride a horse or drive a buggy. The very lines and build of a horse and automobile tend to emphasize a drooping, round-shouldered posture. And the long tours that the automobile lends itself to, the stretches of time that are spent in this drooping posture, add to the tendency to fix the round-shouldered sitting posture permanently.

It will be seen from this discussion that there are two factors in the causation of poor posture. One is bodily form and the other is habit.

While any kind of a body can assume a bad position, the thin "linear" type is most likely to do so. This is partly because the muscles are long and thin and hence weak. They are under more strain to maintain a good posture than shorter, thicker muscles. Although it is also true, that there are plenty of examples of bad posture—round shoulders and protruberant abdomens—among the stock "lat-eral" type.

So far as habit is concerned, the most important feature to emphasize is that deliberate training can produce a good posture. Considerable effort can maintain the improvement that training has produced.

Salesman Makes Poor Hubby

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Miss Lee: I have been married for two years to a man 19 years my senior. Before our marriage he was so loving and seemed to wait for me by him all the time. Now he acts as though I was poison if I get near him.

"He is a salesman on the road and that is where he is contented. He seems to be so uneasy when he is home. I keep the home clean and make it as pleasant as I can. He is always ready to find fault with every little thing.

"I keep myself as attractive as I can with what few clothes I have. He is making good money, but he doesn't like to have anything I never nag him for clothes or anything. But it seems the better I use him the worse he uses me. We live just like strangers. He never wants to talk when he is home, just sit and read his paper.

"He hides his pocketbook every night just as though he thought I was going to steal from him. I even have to ask him for a postage stamp and tell him where it is going.

"I love him, but it doesn't seem as though I could stay on in this way. He wants only his own friends to come and eat, and that is only twice since we were married. He never wants me to have company and I don't have any because he makes it so disagreeable. Do you think this is any way of living? I don't. I would appreciate any advice you could give to help me to change things. Discouraged."

If he is as bad as you say and with so little provocation and you still love him, after two years of it, you're a wonder. Discouraged, I should think you would dislike him, to say the least, and make up your mind that as long as you were getting absolutely nothing out of your marriage but food and a place to sleep, few clothes and no companionship, that you would decide to go out on your own and earn enough to support yourself and have a little freedom and congenial companionship.

Women don't have to put up with such treatment in these modern times. Of course if you really love your husband and want to stay, infinite patience and forbearance is what you will have to arm yourself with, working and hoping that time will make him realize your worth and appreciate it and love you and show it.

Or, possibly he is the kind of beast that will have to be treated roughly, made to understand that you consider yourself his wife and partner, not his slave, and that you will either share his life as a pal should or you will leave him.

Constance: Not much you can do, my dear, but wait until the boy gives you a chance to speak and then show a friendly manner. If he really likes you he will eventually come around, I am sure. And then be careful of your demeanor.

"Dear Miss Lee: What causes me to lose my hair, especially when I wash it? I began to lose some hair about three weeks ago. Does it hurt your hair to wash it every week?" "Blonde."

If your health is below par it would account for your hair falling out. Of course, when you wash it a number of loosened hairs are washed out, but if it is an unusual amount something must be wrong. Massaging the scalp daily helps. No, washing it once a week wouldn't hurt it if you use proper methods. Our beauty expert has a pamphlet on the care of the hair and scalp which I could send you if you would send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin, retaining your case.

THE SOLAR CORONA

Overlying the sun's chromosphere and reaching out in rays-like manner is the outermost solar layer known as the corona (crown). It is visible only at the time of a total solar eclipse, and appears to be the most dainty, pearly, white light. Were there no atmosphere around our earth, the solar corona would always be visible. At sun-spot maximum long corona streamers extend from the sun-spot vicinities; when sun-spots are minimum, equatorial streamers are usually prominent and long with short rays dominating the polar regions. The corona bears evidence of being composed of very fine scattered particles, and probably the particles are upheld by radiative pressure.

Soap, Water Will Help

By GLADYS GLAD

Acne is one of the most difficult problems that our skin specialists have to deal with. And it is not, as some people seem to believe, limited to one certain age. It's true that the average case of acne occurs between the ages of 12 and 16 years. But many women and men suffer from this disease well into their mature years.

A famous physician of my acquaintance recently called attention to the fact that acne is usually found on parts of the body that are generally bathed with the least care, or that are not submerged as much as other parts of the body during the bath. Besides the face, the places on which acne most frequently appears are the chest, the upper arms, the back and the lower legs.

It is the contention of this physician that if, in early youth especially, and at all times when the skin has a tendency to eruptions, special care is taken in cleansing and in stimulating the circulation of the afflicted portions of the body by the use of bath brushes and heavy lathers of bland soap, there would be far fewer cases of acne.

Acne isn't something that happens to the skin overnight. Usually there is first a clogging off of the oil glands, and the formation of blackheads. Then, if the skin is neglected, the oily material in the obstructed oil glands decomposes and inflamed pimples result.

Whenever there is the faintest indication of the existence of acne, the afflicted individual should be taken to, or should herself consult a competent physician or skin specialist.

Waiting until the condition is such that the face, neck and arms—legs or back is unsightly, until, huge, ugly pustules have formed, is oftentimes the cause of acne conditions that last almost a lifetime. Even if the acne is cured, if it was not attended to in its early stage, the skin may retain a pitted, scarred appearance for years afterward.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Dark Circles

Betty: You should not expect to be able to get rid of the dark circles while you continue to strain your eyes, or fail to obtain sufficient sleep every night.

Finger Nails

Peggy: Massage a bit of warm olive oil into the base of each of your finger nails nightly before retiring. This will remedy the brittleness of which you complain.

Depilatories

Frances: I do not advise the use of depilatories on the face. Most of them are far too strong for use on the tender facial skin. However, they may be safely used for removing hair from the arms.

Are All Men Alike?
The Women's Revenge
It's Not True

The women are getting their revenge. After all these years.

After all the years that men—big men, little men, bright men, dull men—have been going around solemnly, remarking that in THEIR opinion WOMEN ARE ALL ALIKE.

Small boys say that. Ganging youngsters who don't own razors say that. Disappointed lovers say it. Disgruntled husbands say it. All men say it—it's been their slogan.

Now the women are saying it—with a difference.

Particularly those bright young ladies who write cynical-snappy what-do-I-care poems for magazines.

They are saying that MEN ARE ALL ALIKE. They are setting down in cold, stinging print that when you know one man you know all of them. The same little insults hurt their pride. The same little flattery swells them out to the bursting point. Man and boy you can't tell them apart.

Well, it's all very well for the men to say that women are all alike. Men are childish about such things. But it's quite something else when women start saying that men are alike. They know better. Or they ought to know better.

It just isn't true. . . . Let's compromise.

Take me, for instance. Or don't take me; take Bill or Roy or Pat or Henry or anybody you like.

One day they're one thing and the next day they're another. Moody in the morning, happy at noon, bored at night, or bored in the morning, moody at noon, happy at sunset. All mixed up. One day anything makes them happy. The next day trifles will send them into deepest gloom. How can you say that all men are alike, when even changes from instant to instant?

Don't tell ME that all men are alike. I know better. Don't tell ME all women are alike, either. Everybody, by this time, ought to know better than that. They are more rigidly themselves from day to day, but they aren't alike, any more than men are. Is the giggling little girl identical with the earnest woman she is to become? Who knows? Does she? Do you? Does anybody?

Hardly one of us fits his pigeon-hole and none of us should. In this infinitely varied and fascinatingly changeable world, it is best for all of us that nothing shall stay put. . . . If all women were alike, men would be bored. If all men were alike, women couldn't stand the creature another minute. Life's best the way it is.

MUSKINGUM, OHIO, HIRAM 1931 CHAMPS IN STATE FOOTBALL

Hiram Cinches Cellular
Title; Reserve May
Dispute Muskies

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 16.—Championship flags, denoting supremacy over widely different domains floated above the football champs at Ohio U., Muskingum, Western Reserve and Hiram today.

Dispute may arise over the supremacy of Muskingum and Western Reserve in their respective fields but as to the championship caliber of Ohio U. and Hiram there can be no question.

Don Peden's Ohio U. team clattered into its third straight title in the Buckeye Conference, mauling Miami, 13 to 0.

Hiram clinched the cellular championship of the state when it met Capital, which also had not won a game this season, and was humiliated, 13 to 0.

An eighty-five yard run for a touchdown by Sheldon Franz, when only a minute remained to play in the first half, marked Reserve's 6 to 6 win over Case to give Reserve the championship of Cleveland.

By crushing Ashland, 24 to 0, Little Muskingum kept its undefeated record unmarred and won recognition as the champion of the Ohio Conference.

Some kind of a title also seemed to be due Wittenberg, which smashes Marshall College, 27 to 13, and remained in the undefeated group. The Lutherans played open football on a muddy field and got away with it.

Lop-sided victories were scored by Cincinnati and Ohio Wesleyan in games which held no championship. The Bearcats riddled the Heidelberg line, winning 46 to 7, and the Bishops, using three teams, slaughtered Wabash, 60 to 0.

Perhaps the most spectacular battle was waged by Oberlin and Denison. They fought a 6 to 6 tie, both touchdowns being made on dazzling runs. Henry of Oberlin raced sixty-five yards.

Unprecedented breaks of the game gave two Northwestern Ohio Conference teams victories over Michigan opponents. Tackle Harry Traub of Bowling Green blocked a punt in the last quarter and made the touchdown that beat Central State of Mt. Pleasant, 6 to 0. An intercepted pass was Findlay's margin of triumph over Adrian, 25 to 18.

Other Saturday scores were: Kent State 6, Otterbein 0; Kenyon, 27, Marietta 0; Ohio Northern 31, Wilmington 2; O. S. U. Reserves 26, Akron 0; Dayton 27, John Carroll 0.

JAMESTOWN OPENS BASKETBALL YEAR

Heralding the approach of another basketball season, the Jamestown Merchants, an independent court quintet, opened its schedule with a 25 to 25 victory over the field, at the Jamestown High School gymnasium Friday night.

Only a few points separated the teams throughout the entire game. The Merchants have booked a game with the Plumwood Athletic Club, independent champions of Madison County, for Wednesday night, November 25, at the Jamestown gym. This contest will be preceded at 7:30 o'clock by a preliminary between the Jamestown Grange and Caesar Creek Grange.

The Jamestown court team is composed of Boyer and Baker at forwards, Ferguson at center, Jenks and Holton at guards. Ferguson topped the scoring against the Crowell team with eight points, followed by Boyer with seven, Baker and Jenks with six apiece and Holton with a free throw.

Our other forecaster, Emanuel Good, Osborn, experienced tough sledding. Trying to pick the winners and also the probable scores of twenty of the hardest games, he had twelve winners, six losers and two ties. None of his scores was exactly correct although he came exceedingly close on the Colgate-Syracuse game. He selected Colgate to win, 21 to 7, and Colgate won, 20 to 7. Mr. Good picked Illinois to beat Chicago, 13 to 6, but although he hit the score right, Chicago won and not Illinois.

Other five losers were as follows: Dartmouth, 10; Cornell, 0; Harvard, 7; Holycross, 0; Bucknell, 10; W. and J. 6; Tulane, 20; Georgia, 7; Tennessee, 21; Vanderbilt, 7.

WEST LIBERTY STAR IS LEADING SCORER

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Bob Campiglio of West Liberty, West Virginia, continued today to lead eastern football scorers with a mark of 146.

Louis Bush, second last week, turned in the best performance of Saturday with a total of thirty points and the Massachusetts state star is now twenty points behind Campiglio with a total of 126 points.

Campiglio scored one touchdown Saturday against Morris, Harvey, the final game on the West Liberty schedule. Bush has one more chance to overtake the leader, playing against Tufts on Saturday.

Jim Murphy of Fordham ranks third with ten.

Other leaders are: Garback, Allegheny and McCall, Dartmouth, eighty-four; Goff, Rhode Island, and Moran, Syracuse, seventy-eight; Labove, Drexel, seventy-six; Grossman, Rutgers, seventy-three, and Wiclan, Catholic University, seventy-two.

PORTSMOUTH MOVES ON LEAGUE LEADERS

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 16.—The Portsmouth Spartans, pride of Ohio, were within a half game of the Green Bay Packers in the national professional football league today, following their defeat of Cleveland here yesterday to the tune of 14-6.

The Spartans' defeat of the Packers when their win was coupled with the Green Bay's defeat at the hands of the Chicago Cardinals.

A crowd of approximately 6,000 watched the Spartans capture their tenth win of the season, as compared with two losses. The loss was the second that the Cleveland Indians have suffered at the hands of their Ohio neighbors this season.

WILBERFORCE ELEVEN DEFEATS BLUEFIELD IN MARCH TO TITLE

Sweeping another obstacle aside in its mad rush toward the national colored college football title, Wilberforce University romped over Bluefield Institute by a score of 32 to 0 in an inter-sectional game at Bluefield, W. Va., Saturday.

In registering its sixth straight triumph without a defeat, the Green and Gold have swept the state college eleven before it and scored through the line almost at will. The whistle, ending the first half, blocked Bluefield's only scoring threat. The Bulldogs defeated Bluefield, 13 to 0, last year.

Wilberforce will meet Lincoln University of Chester County, Pa., in its annual "home-coming" game at Wilberforce Saturday. This will be the last home game of the season for the "Force."

In the morning C. W. Lewis led the group singing and the Rev. Mr. Arthur led in prayer. Separate conferences on children's, youth's and adult's work were held during the morning.

Following a covered dish dinner at noon the afternoon program opened with a song service led by D. Eldon Bailey, Jamestown. In addition to Mr. Arnold's and Mrs. Sandy's talk an interesting address on "The Public School Co-Operation in Christian Education" was given by the Rev. Mr. Stitzel. FOOTBALL SIDELINE STORIES

Football officials must be more than just students of the gridiron game—they must be athletes themselves. Chasing a halfback as he gallops down the field on a long run to touchdown calls for physical as well as mental ability upon the part of the whistle blowers.

A grand example was the Michigan State-Ripon college game this year.

State crushed Ripon by 100-0 count, and in doing so the Michigan players raced repeatedly down the field for long distances to score.

State runs of 40, 50, 70 and 80 yards featured the game.

After the massacre reporters asked Coach Jim Crowley what he thought of the holocaust.

"Not a bad game—for us," Crowley answered, "but I certainly felt sorry for the officials. The referee, alone, lost 10 pounds."

DEAR OLD SING SING WINS

Black And Gray Colors Held High As Convict Team Beats Militia

OSHSING, N. Y., Nov. 16.—They waved the "college" colors—black and gray—here today.

For dear old Sing Sing won, 33 to 0.

Its convict eleven licked the naval militia team here Sunday in a spirited game of football and fears that the Sing Sing backfield, once off a long round-end run, would keep right on over the fence proved without grounds.

The victory, some of the older alumni said, was due to the coaching of "Red" Hope, class of 1920, and was marked by the fine play of quarterback "Ten-To-Go" Pitts.

Pitts was willing to take many chances and the Navy Militia just could not get their man at crucial moments.

The spectators, who watched the game played on the clay of the prison exercise yard, were "frisked" for guns and knives before they tripped across the "campus" to the tilt.

There was no organized cheering but the Sing Sing undergraduates had a splendid "bronx cheer" for what they thought were ill-advised plays and an attempt at the hidden ball trick brought indignant murmurs of "for shame, for shame."

BIG TEN PLANS CHARITY TILTS; OHIO STATE PLAYS MINNESOTA

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Approximately $500,000 will be raised for the relief of the unemployed by Big Ten post-season football games. It was estimated today.

The schedule for the charity contests, worked out here yesterday at a meeting of coaches and athletic directors with Maj. John L. Griffith, conference athletic commissioner, follows:

Nov. 28—Northwestern vs. Wisconsin at Soldier Field, Chicago.

Nov. 28—Michigan vs. Wisconsin at Ann Arbor.

Nov. 28—Ohio State vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Thanksgiving Day—At Stargis Field, Chicago, Chicago and Iowa will play one-half a game, Indiana and Illinois will play one-half a game, and a third half-game will be played by the winners of the first two contests.

The charity games will be the same as regular season tilts in regard to the championship. This factor will guarantee a record game at the Northwestern-Purdue game, for the Bollermakers have a good chance to upset the Wildcats, thus far undefeated.

It had been expected that Northwestern would be matched against Michigan, but the coaches decided it would be "poor business not to use the facilities of the Wolverine's giant stadium at Ann Arbor."

The charity program will be played among the seven states in which the Big Ten schools are situated, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota. The division will be according to official population figures.

The Ohio-Minnesota combat should be well-attended, as the two teams are considered evenly matched. The Wisconsin-Michigan game also ought to be a drawing card, as Wisconsin has displayed brilliance this season despite the fact it has lost two loop encounters.

Decision of the Big Ten to hold the post-season program was in response to an appeal by President Hoover's committee on relief.

The question of whether Northwestern would travel to the coast to meet Southern California on Jan. 1, as has been proposed, was not discussed at the meeting, it was announced.

POWERS' ATTORNEY ASKS VENUE CHANGE

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 16.—Claiming it was impossible for his client to get a fair trial in Harrison County, J. Edgar Law, counsel for Harry P. Powers, "Bluebeard slayer," today filed a motion for a change of venue in the courtroom of Judge John C. Southern here.

State's Attorney Will E. Morris objected to presentation of argument on the motion and told the court the plea for change of venue should be accompanied by affidavits and depositions. After a short hearing, Judge Southern took under advisement the question of whether he will hear argument on the motion or order affidavits filed in support of it. He will announce his decision sometime this week, it was indicated.

Powers, was brought from the county jail to the courthouse to be present at the proceedings, escorted by Sheriff John Grimm and three state policemen.

YEGGS GET SUNDAY CHURCH DONATIONS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—Seeking the collections made at the Sunday services, yeggmen today entered two Cleveland churches, and escaped with an undetermined amount of loot, according to police.

The entire Sunday receipts were obtained at the First Unitarian Church, where the safe was dragged into a hallway and blown open by the robbers, police said.

The loss was not discovered until the custodian, Mike Crowley, opened the church today.

Burglars also entered the first Methodist Church, and after tampering with the safe, secured a small sum left in a desk in the church office, it was said.

Black Chamber New Plot; Speed Movie Will Be Shot

Major Herbert O. Yardley, one of the world's authorities on secret diplomacy, is in Hollywood helping to write Constance Bennett's new story at RKO-Pathé.

For twenty-one years Yardley was head of the U. S. government's department of cryptography. He supervised the interception and decoding of thousands of secret diplomatic messages and later wrote a book about it called "The American Black Chamber."

It was this book which led Director E. H. Griffith to suggest the film to Pathé and he has been assigned to the direction. The story

Constance Bennett
We just can't help showing "Connie" all dolled up for her afternoon center as yet untitled, will have a Russian local. Albert Shelby Le Vain was called in, but the studio decided to send for Yardley as well. It will be his job to see that the drama of secret diplomacy and espionage is authentically represented.

With RKO hiring all the stunt aviators to work in Dick Grace's film, "The Lost Squadron," Warners are out to hire all the famous racing drivers to appear in "The Roar of the Crown."

Director Howard Hawks already has secured Harry Hartz, Ralph De Palma and Leon Dury. Incidentally the cast of this picture has been juggled several times. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. was expected to get the lead, but James Cagney was the final choice. Others will be Dorothy Mackall and Walter Huston, Joan Blondell, once announced, is now out because she won't finish her current film in time.

The company will go to Indianapolis for the racing scenes, which are to include some dangerous spills.

They say a sight worth seeing was 500 film people doing a college snakedance to U. S. C. and Stanford songs at the first Mayfair party of the season—the club's largest gathering to date—about 350 couples.

It took place at the Biltmore Hotel the night after the Stanford U. S. C. game. All the recent newly-Lilyan Tashman returned to Hollywood to attend the funeral of her sister, Kitty, whose sudden death shocked the film colony, where she was popular. She had lived with Lilyan for almost eight years. Another tragedy was the passing of Tom Barry, who had just finished work on "Over the Hill" and was going to Lake Arrowhead to write a play. His death was sudden.

XENIA STEMMERY TO REMAIN CLOSED AND WILL BE ABANDONED

Shut down during the last six months, the Xenia Stemmy, branch of the American Cigar Co., located on W. Second St., will remain closed permanently, it has been known.

The stemmy, established nearly twenty-two years ago, had furnished employment to about 400 persons, mostly colored women, and was considered one of the leading industries of the city. During more prosperous times the weekly payroll of the concern had generally amounted to about $4,000 and work was furnished a considerable portion of the colored population of Xenia.

It is now understood the physical property of the plant is to be offered for lease or sale by the controlling company and that the stemmy will not be reopened.

The stemmy is one of three operated by the American Cigar Co. The other two are located in Virginia. They are considerably larger than the Xenia branch and will in the immediate future and perhaps until present conditions improve, be able to take care of the production needs of the parent company, it is said.

The Xenia Stemmy had existed for the purpose of stemming leaf tobacco to provide cigar filler, which is then shipped to other factories to be used in completing the manufactured product.

The same local officials also have been in charge of the stemmy ever since it was established here twenty-one years ago last March. Earl E. Boxwell has always been general manager with Watkins Frame as office manager.

The physical equipment of the plant consists of the original brick building, a combination three-story and two-story structure, that was at one time the location of the Hoover and Allison Co., local cordage firm now having its place of business on Cincinnati Ave. An immense warehouse, the south end of which was converted into an office building, is also included. The office building was remodeled a few years ago.

POPULATION GAINS BY 21 IN OCTOBER

Twenty-one births were recorded in Xenia and Greene County during October according to that month's report as submitted by Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, Greene County health nurse. Of this number seven were in Xenia city and fourteen were in the county.

Infants born during the month were: Infant Cummings, Patricia Ann Luck, R. R. 3, Roscoe Ellisworth Ellis, all of Jamestown; Jennie Patricia Scott and Donald Lee Shinkle, Cedarville; Edna Bertha Crew, R. R. Wayneville; Lalla Joyce White and Thomas Lee Rawlins, Spring Valley; Francis Ebelage Federighi and Evangeline Helen Broderick, Yellow Springs; James Gordon McMillan and Raymond Arthur Lewis Jr., Osborn.

COMMERCIAL AUTO FEES INCREASED

Under provisions of the new motor vehicle license law, effective January 1, 1932, the fees on commercial cars are increased, according to County Auditor James J. Curlett.

The schedule of increases on truck licenses is as follows: 70 cents per 100 pounds or part thereof, for the first 2,000 pounds; $1.10 per each 100 pounds or part thereof, in excess of 2,000 pounds, up to and including 3,000 pounds; $1.50 per 100 pounds or part thereof, in excess of 3,000 pounds up to and including 4,000 pounds; $1.50 per 100 pounds or part thereof, in excess of 4,000 pounds, up to and including 6,000 pounds; $2 per each 100 pounds or part, in excess of 6,000 pounds up to and including 10,000 pounds; and $2.25 per each 100 pounds or part thereof in excess of 10,000 pounds.

LAST "LITTLE RED SCHOOL" IS SOLD

The last of the one-room "little red schoolhouses" in Spring Valley Twp. rural school district, placed on the auction block Saturday afternoon, was bought by S. B. Craig, near Xenia.

Three-fourths of an acre of land on which the brick building stands was also included in the sale.

The school was formerly known as the Roxanna school. Originally there were ten one-room schools in this district, but one by one they were abandoned. The one sold at public auction on the premises Saturday was discontinued for school purposes eight or ten years ago, according to H. S. Noggle, clerk of the township board of education. The school board authorized the sale and two bidders showed up.

BARTER DAYS ARE BACK

PENDELTON, Ore.—Eastern Oregon communities have resorted to the old system of barter this year to supply themselves with a variety of farm products. Milton-Free-water will exchange apples for flour; Athena will trade beans for flour, and Stanfield wants flour in exchange for its potatoes. Millers in the great Pendleton wheat belt have agreed to grind wheat at the rate of a barrel of flour for four and a half bushels of wheat. Pendleton will be the clearing house for the trades.

COXEY REVEALS HIS PLANS FOR UNEMPLOYED AND NEEDY OF CITY

(EDITOR'S NOTE—In the following article, written expressly for International News Service, "General" Jacob Sechler Coxey Sr., famed leader of "Coxey's Army" which made its historic march on Washington thirty-seven years ago, tells his plans for relieving the unemployed and needy of Massillon, of which he has just been elected mayor.)

By "GENERAL" JACOB S. COXEY SR.

Mayor-Elect, City of Massillon, O. (Written expressly for I. N. S.)

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 16.—I am opposed to the dole, and I don't believe in charity. I am going to propose to Massillon's city council a $200,000 bond issue, by which money can be loaned to the unemployed with the provision that they work out the loan when we have work for them to do.

On November 3rd I was elected mayor of the city of Massillon, O., on the Republican ticket, with a plurality of 1,811 votes, and a majority of 1,099 over three candidates.

Before and after the election I was asked repeatedly what I would do for the unemployed, and I made by bond relief plan an issue of my campaign. Also, I made an issue of public ownership of public utilities such as water works, electric light and gas plants, claiming that they were going concerns, making money, and the profits would pay for them in twenty-five years as well as the interest charges on them.

This bond issue would bear interest at the rate of one mill or one-tenth of one per cent per annum. The bonds would be issued in denominations of 25 cents, 50 cents, $1, $5 and $10 each to pay debts, taxes, fines and other obligations. Such bonds are not to be sold but are to be paid out by the city treasurer for services rendered by the unemployed.

These interest bearing bonds would be deposited with the city treasurer, the same way that money received from the sale of 5 per cent interest bearing bonds are now deposited with such treasurer, and then paid to labor.

Labor would be able then to purchase the necessities of life and pay with these bonds; the merchants could pay the wholesaler, and the wholesaler could deposit them in the bank. In turn, the bank will treat them the same as they now do National Bank notes which are secured with government bond bearing interest, and loan such bonds out on manufacturers notes, exactly the same way that currency is now loaned out.

In case the banks refuse to co-operate with us, then the city treasurer can clear these bonds. Suppose a merchant has $100 of these bonds and he needs $100 in money to go outside of Massillon to pay a debt. He takes them to the treasurer, and the treasurer gives the merchant a check for $100, and takes the bonds.

The treasurer has just as much money in the treasury as he had before, and he then pays the bonds out again for services and labor.

Two hundred thousand dollars of these bonds will liberate and release an equal amount of legal tender money to pay bills outside the city of Massillon, and give us a medium to pay, transact and cancel $2,000,000 of business a month more than we now can because there is a lack of credit and no money to do business with. This would mean $24,000,000 business a year.

The time is ripe for my system to be tried. The people are hungry and when they are hungry they listen.

Thirty months ago business men could go to banks and have their notes discounted, thereby creating a credit. They used checks against this credit in the banks with only 3 per cent of money and 97 per cent of checks answering every purpose of money, but only transferring credit instead of money. That credit has collapsed. The notes cannot be discounted now, and we are starving in the midst of plenty.

With congress having failed to function for the people by supplying them with legal tender money, the municipalities must function by issuing one-mill interest bearing bonds and employ the unemployed, or make advances to them so as to avoid starvation, suicide and crime, and retire such bonds at the rate of four per cent of the principal annually.

PROVIDE FOR SOUND PICTURES AT HOME

Purchase of sound equipment to provide "talkie" motion pictures for children of the O. S. and S. O. Home was made by the board of trustees at its November meeting at the institution over the weekend.

The new equipment will replace the present motion picture machine heretofore used to show silent pictures. It has been customary to give a picture show for the Home pupils one evening every week, but since the advent of the "talkies" it has been difficult to procure up-to-date silent films.

No other business other than routine matters was transacted at the board meeting. All trustees were present except Col. W. T. Amos, Sidney newspaper publisher, president of the board, who recently submitted to an operation to have his foot lanced.

JACKETS SHORTER; BELTED JUMPER IS SURVIVOR OF 1870

By ALICE LANGELEIR

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Old-fashioned comfort is very evident in the new-old fashions that are making every smart woman very romantic this season.

Jackets are shorter than they have been for many days but they are also practical. The high necks may be speedily turned into low ones, frills and bustles are not allowed to impede the wearer and larger awkward bows have disappeared.

High necks are extremely smart and cosy on both coats and frocks. Coats often button up on one shoulder and down on the side so that the line of the collar is not broken. Worth is showing one with a double row of silver buttons down the front and the high neckline ends in a scarf.

Scarves, fur capelets and muffs are in the center of the fashion picture now that chill weather has come back. Each fashion house has its own ideas on the subject. One of them uses fur-edged scarves of cloth or tweed with large muffs to match and big separate cape collars of astrakhan and sealskin with accompanying muff.

Another persistent survivor of the 70's which is both cosy and comfy, is the bodice called a belted jumper. Some of the designers make it in contrasting color to the skirt. A perfectly plain skirt is worn with it, for in spite of the present-day affection for all things old-fashioned, no one has started wearing the "trimmed" skirt except for very formal evening wear.

If you are selling a new or better service, goods of equal or better quality at lower prices than before, or a new style hat or radio or can of peas, that is news.

To the buying public it's as much news as Lindbergh's latest flight, a presidential speech, or the Army-Notre Dame football game.

A newspaper gives today's news today. That's why its readers buy it. They don't want last month's news, or last week's—they want today's.

That is why you are sure of reader-interest for every word you say when you advertise goods or service to sell in the newspapers.
